SOME TOWNS IN TEXAS

PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Texas, Nov. 13.—This county suffers several million dollar loss due to rain. Farm products, cotton, potatoes, peanuts, and corn are rotting in the fields. The harvesting of these valuable products seems almost impossible.

People in town feel the loss also the ever-increasing demand for fuel is alarming, roads so bad, the howling of wind is almost a thing of the past. Without a great change the entire county will witness a great famine before another crop can be made. While you are studying what to do with your money, put it in a bank.

Church Notes.
Services at all churches were rained out last Sunday, the result of the rally will appear in next week's issue.

School Notes.
The District schools of this county have received from the $2,000,000 rural fund $7,175 which is about $2.00 more than the county received last year. This means better pay for teachers and better teachers for the county.

Industrial, Commercial and Civic Societies a Dream.

The N. E. T. Industrial and Commercial Association which had its advent Nov. 28th of last year flamed up like a beacon light in words, but not in actual work, lasted for several months when perhaps in January of this year the Negro Business League was organized. The Executive officers of both concerns were anxious for supremacy and over looked the intent of the organizations which closed with the 19th of June. Later on the Negro Law Enforcement League was organized, the intent of which was mis-understood by some to the extent they knocked it by holding up a scare crow. Now they are all inactive. Did we, you, or they sap the life out of these organizations?

Get in the lime light. Keep in touch with the big things the Negroes are doing in this big wide world of opportunities.

Personals.
Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bolton have gone to Boley, Okla., where they will remain for the winter.

Mr. Will Rollin, who left some time ago to go west to pick cotton was very sick when last heard from by his people.

Mr. Rutherford Mansum is at Bishop College. Rev. L. W. Whitmore has resigned a school position to look after the farms of his newly married bride.

Mrs. Edna Jackson has gone to Spring Dale, Texas, where she will teach this year.

Rev. T. C. George, Jr., of Sulphur Springs, is doing splendidly. On account of heavy rain both the night trains on the Cotton Belt were canceled Sunday night.
